Brand story

A practice has a lot of moving parts: the clinical work in the room, the team in the office, an agency, a coordinator, a vendor or thirty. Each piece does its job. What is missing is the layer above them.

Fractional Aesthetics sits one level up. It holds the strategy, sets the standard the work is measured against, and owns the through-line, so the brand the surgeon built in the operating room is the same brand the patient meets everywhere else.

The gap is never effort and never budget. It is connective tissue. That is what the practice buys, and it is the serious counterpart to the playful LazarVision.

Every practice has a missing piece. Most can't name it.

Fractional Aesthetics is the layer that names it: a fractional business advisory for aesthetic medicine that owns the through-line from the operating room to the last click before a consultation is booked.

Between the room and the inbox, the signal breaks down. Content gets posted. Ads get run. The question nobody asks: did any of it move a patient closer to booking. The answer is built on evidence, not guesswork.

Positioning

An agency ships deliverables against a scope. Fractional Aesthetics works one level above that: the coordination function a practice does not have time to staff, setting the brief and holding the standard so what ships matches what was intended.

The work starts with measurement. The FAX audit reads a practice across 34 public signals and peer benchmarks: Google presence, web performance, and AI answer visibility. From there the plan is built on what the data says matters most.

Two ways in: a two-week Diagnostic with a written Go or No-Go, and a month-to-month Partnership that embeds alongside the team.

THE OFFER

01

Partnership

The monthly engagement. Embedded alongside the team, owning the through-line. Monthly reporting, creative oversight, tooling that learns the practice. Always month-to-month.

02

Diagnostic

Two weeks, one strategic review, a written Go or No-Go at the end. A plan either way; credits applied to Partnership if you proceed.

03

FAX audit

A complimentary scorecard across 34 public signals and peer benchmarks. Prepared and personally reviewed before it goes out. No call required.

Brand values

The values set the standard the work is measured against. They keep the advisory honest, precise, and useful to a clinical audience that has no time to waste.

Whatever the engagement, the owner should come away with a clearer picture of their practice and a plan backed by evidence.

01

Evidence first

Every claim ties to a measurable signal. Most of what we find, the owner already suspected but had not had time to name.

03

Precision

Sharp questions, straight answers. Concrete nouns, no filler, no marketing superlatives.

05

Additive

Make the people already hired more effective. Never put the existing team out of a job.

02

Through-line

One standard held from the operating room to the last click. The brand stays the same at every step.

04

Restraint

The work is the pitch. Confidence reads as competence, not volume.

06

Honest pace

Quick wins ship in the first week; deeper changes move when the data supports them.

Brand tone

Tone is precise and calm. Short declaratives, concrete nouns, and no filler. Confidence reads as competence, so the writing never reaches for hype.

Plain language throughout. A clinical audience is busy, so say it once, plainly, and stop. Define a term inline only when it earns its place.

The register is serious without being cold, and always on the side of the practice.

Identity.

WORDMARK · COLOUR · TYPOGRAPHY

Wordmark and lockups

The wordmark is the full name, set in PP Mondwest at a single weight. Its bitmap-serif texture is the brand’s signature. The short mark FA. stands in where space is tight.

It is white on Void Black, tracked at minus 0.01em. It never recolours, never bolds, and never animates.

The yellow terminal period is the one sanctioned accent on the mark. Use it, or leave the mark plain white.

DO NOT

~~Fractional Aesthetics~~

Never swap the type. It is PP Mondwest.

~~Fractional Aesthetics~~

Never fill the mark yellow. It is the accent only.

~~Fractional Aesthetics~~

Never place it on a coloured ground.

Colour palette

The system is a black surface and one yellow. Void Black grounds everything; elevation comes from the grey steps and hairlines, never from colour.

Restoration Yellow is rare and meaningful. It lands on the one phrase that carries the point, the terminal period, or the primary action. Never decoration.

The pop-art overlays are reserved for treated imagery and diagnostics, such as the teal bust wireframe. They never colour type or interface.

Typography

Three families. PP Mondwest is the display voice: the wordmark, headlines, and section numerals. Its bitmap-serif texture is the signature and is never bolded.

Space Grotesk does the work: body, interface, navigation, and captions, set at a calm 1.65 line-height. Inter italic carries the occasional editorial aside.

Together they read as exact and modern, which is the whole point.

THE BRAND IN PRACTICE: THE LIVE SITE AND THE AUDIT

In practice

The brand is already live. The same Void Black, the same Restoration Yellow, and the same Mondwest wordmark carry from the site to the deliverable a practice owner actually receives.

The FAX audit is the first thing a practice sees: a real scorecard across 34 public signals, personally reviewed before it goes out. It scores the practice, names the single most important gap, and reads in the same voice as this book.

Site, intake, and scorecard are one system. The through-line the brand promises is the through-line the owner meets.
